

IMPROVEMENTS. (Programming)

- It has now a byline linked to the email of the author.
- The length of the paragraph were reduced in order to make it easier and fix some readability issues.
- It indicates the time to read.
- It has the title as a <h1> headline
- It has a time of publication
- New “go-up” button.
- We Increased the line-height to make it easier to read.
- The font-size for regular text is 18px now, making it easier to read.
- You can now go through the article via keyboard
- We increased the spaces between elements to add contrast.
- The banner is inside a <figure> element and It has the cite in a <figcaption>.
- The structure of the text is correct now, we did not use span for text neither br for space like the old article.
- We did a print version.
- The Readability is still 30.6 because we did not change the content, just the structure.
- We added a anchor (link) to support the opinion and make the article stronger.
- The HTML code and the CSS code were validated on:
  - The Markup Validaton Service
  - The W3C CSS Validation Service
  - Codebeautify.org